5 • Read the given passage and answer the questions that follow:

Those who have a passion for climbing high, are often looked upon with astonishment. Why are men willing to suffer cold and hardship, and to take risk on mountains? This astonishment is caused probably by the difference between mountaineering and other forms of activity to which men give their leisure. Mountaineering is a sport not a game, There are no man made rules, as there are for such games as hockey, cricket, football. There are different kinds of rules which, of course, would be dangerous to ignore, but it is this freedom which makes mountaineering attractive to many people. Those who climb mountains are free to use their own methods

- (i) What is the difference between sport and game?
- (ii) Why are mountain climbers looked upon with astonishment?
- (iii) What makes mountaineering attractive to many people?
- (iv) Give a suitable title to the above passage.

It is the height of the selfishness of men, who fully appreciate in their own case the advantage of a good education to deny these advantages to women. There is no valid argument by which the exclusion of women from the privileges of education can be defended. It is argued that women have their domestic duties to perform and that if they were educated, they would bur themselves in their books, and have little time for attending to the management of their household. On the contrary, education involves knowledge of the means by which health may be improved, and which enable a mother to consult such modern books that will tell her how to rear up her children into healthy men and women and skillfully help them when a disease attacks her household.

i) Are men justified in denying education to women?

5. Read the following passage and answer the questions given below:

Advertising can be a service to the customer. This is true when advertisements give reliable information about the goods advertised. Such information is needed if the customer is to make sensible choice when he buys. It is useful in the way that it lets him know of the kind of goods in the shops. Printed advertisements do this job best. Customers can collect them and compare them. It is much harder to do this with T.V. or radio. Some advertisements are not very useful to the customers. Instead of helping him to satisfy his real needs, they set out to create a need. The people who produce them understand our weaknesses. The mislead customers by using part of the truth to suggest something false. So we should be on guard, it is our money they're after.

i) What is an Advertisement?

ii) Why is printed media much better than T.V. or radio?

iii) How do some advertisements succeed in creating a need?

iv) Suggest a suitable title to the above passage?

Wealth has a glamour for all in the modern days. All our energies and brains are directed towards material advancement. Nature in all her magnificence may be around us, but we do not care for her. Our eyes, our hearts, our brains, our feelings and our passions are engrossed in hoarding glittering coins and not I appreciating the gorgeous and beauteous aspects of nature.

A: sordid boom - a sorry and ignoble bargain - the giving away of the eternal in us for the transitory, the divine for the merely gross and earthly. We no longer feel that Nature is the anchor of our purest thoughts, the nurse, the guide, the guardian of our hearts and the soul of our moral being. If we give up our materialistic attitude and utilitarian outlook and turn to Nature we find and feel that we have intimate relation with Nature. It is an undeniable fact that we can bypass Nature but we can't escape the influence of Nature.

Courage is the trait that enables a person to do what he is afraid to do in spite of his fear. Fear is something that enables a person to keep himself away from doing things which will harm him. Nature gave us fear to protect us from danger. It is no disgrace for one to be afraid, for all of us are afraid of something or other. The coward is the person who lets his fear master him. The brave man does what he ought to do. If you would make the most of yourself, then, you must have courage. This means that you must be able to act bravely even though you tremble while doing a thing. Doing a thing which you are afraid to do often helps you to overcome your fear. If you fear other people, you may overcome the fear by bravely facing them. Courageous persons overcome senseless fears.
